Campaign of Misrepresentations Goes Merrily on, Says Cadmus

HE SCORES THE STALOGUE

National Historical Society
Progressive National Organizer Refutes Arguments of the Standard-batters

CASPER, Wyo., Feb. 16.—The campaign of misrepresentation by the Republican leaders merrily continues, declared William E. Cadmus, national organizer, addressing the conference of Wyoming Progressives here tonight. They are taking full advantage of the fact that they have the press and the Progressives have not. Instead of hanging their principles to meet the popular demand of the times, Republican leaders prefer to dissolve themselves into thinking they can deceive the people by false news concerning future, by misrepresentation of Progressive principles, by impugning the integrity of Progressive leaders.

Mr. Cadmus cited the article by former President William H. Taft in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post as a case in question and continued:

Taft's Charges Groundless

"He charges the Progressives with trying to create a 'socialistic democracy' when our purpose is to create a social democracy. With artistic misrepresentation, he charges us with attempting to our party members who want to take from those who have and give to those who have not; to redistribute the property of the country. What a lie!

In the past eight months I have spoken to thousands of Progressives in 30 states and I have not met a man who advocated such anarchy. To his charge in not keeping solemn oaths upon which he was elected in 1908, to his actions and words, and in demanding in 1912 a platform which he has not yet given, I say that this is a deliberate act of a traitor.

"Our party does advocate new measures of social and industrial justice, new actual laws throughout much of Europe, and progressive ideals like New Zealand and Australia; measures already used by many industrial co-operative concerns in America, without impairment of their profits, and with immense increase of mutual good will.

Is Not Anarchy?

"Is it anarchy for the Western Union to dismiss its employees? Neither is it anarchy for a political party, by some method, adapted to American conditions, to pay men the equal workmen, to secure him from the misfortunes of accident or unemployment. Nor is it anarchy to prohibit child labor, or the discrimination against sex, either in industry or at the ballot.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—For the purpose of underwriting Western Union Telegraph company stock to the amount of about $80,000,000, now owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a syndicate at the head of which is Kuhn, Loeb & Co., has been formed, it was announced tonight.

According to the announcement, details of the plan have not been made public, but it is understood it is designed to carry out the agreement reached recently between the federal department of justice and the American Telephone and Telegraph company, providing for the segregation of the interests of the Western Union and the American Telephone and Telegraph company. It is the intention of the syndicate to underwrite the stock to present shareholders of the Western Union company.

Holdings in Concern

It is said that on October 21, 1911, the American Telephone and Telegraph company owned $29,557,200 worth of Western Union stock of a total of $90,000,000 then outstanding. Due to the fact that the stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph company was being voted on in block, one-third holding gave the company control over the Western Union, it was charged by the government. The stock in question was acquired by the telephone company through purchases of the Gould, Sage and Morosini holdings.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company was under investigation by the department of justice for a number of years, it being charged by the various independent telephone interests that the trunk lines of the combination were closed to them and competition stifled.

Allege Unfair Treatment

The Mackay companies complained of unfair treatment in the matter of rates charged on messages transferred from its system to the Western Union, and alleged that the telephone company instructed its operators to switch all traffic to the Western Union, "to send it to the Western Union," and by its usual route.

In addition to its promise to relinquish its Western Union holdings, the telephone company's agreement with the department of justice also provided that "neither the parent company nor any other company in the Bell system will hereafter acquire dominion or control over a competing telephone company."

The agreement also stipulated that arrangements would be made promptly by which all other telephone companies could procure for their subscribers toll service over the lines of the Bell companies.

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN GIVES WEALTH OF INTERESTING INFORMATION TO VISITORS

Big Silo Special, Open This Morning, Carries
Everything to Show Science of Farming

Nearly 400 people visited the dairy and forage crop special demonstration train of the Agricultural college and the Santa Fe railroad at the Santa Fe depot last night between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock. All three of the exhibit cars were opened immediately upon the arrival of the train and the professors and railroad men were on hand to explain the exhibits.

This morning the real work of the fair will take place when the lectures on agricultural and domestic science subjects are given from 9 to 11:30 a.m. From 8 to 9 o'clock this morning the train will be open to High school students and teachers.

The train arrived here from Mountain on schedule time after a most successful day. More than 1,000 people visited the train yesterday, including those who attended here last night. The special will be on the road 10 a.m. and will cover more than 1,000 miles. It will leave here at 11:30 o'clock this morning for Fountain.

Exhibit of Highest Order

The interest was manifested by those who visited the train last night and pronounced the exhibit most interesting. The train is completely equipped for both exhibition and demonstration work. Today, weather permitting, the lectures will be given as the flat car carried for that purpose should the day be cold or stormy. The lectures will be given in the flat cars, of which there are three, and for such emergencies as a young girl her Spearman. The hog farm is represented by the Poland-China, Berkshire and Duroc-Jersey breeds Jersey, Ayrshire and Holstein cows are shown.

TAYLOR OVERRULES TWO REPUBLICANS IN MINE HEARINGS

Says Democrats Have Majority in Committee; Admits
Mooted Report

HANCOCK, Mich., Feb. 16.—Congressman E. T. Taylor of Colorado, chairman of the congressional committee investigating the copper miners' strike, today overruled the objection of the two Republican members and admitted in evidence the report made several months ago by Alfred J. Murphy, a special investigator sent to the copper fields by Governor Peris of Michigan.

After the hearing closed for the day, Mr. Taylor said that the Democrats had a majority of the committee, although one of their number had not yet arrived. He made his ruling accordingly, he said.

Representatives Howell and Switzer objected to the admission of the report, on motion of Angus W. Kerr of counsel for the striking copper miners, on the ground that it was irrelevant to the inquiry. They took the stand that Mr. Murphy based his conclusions was being brought out before the committee, and that it was not pertinent to the inquiry.

Inquiry on One Case Closed.

The strikers elicited their case on one subject of inquiry, the causes leading up to the conditions that are alleged to exist, and tomorrow expect to begin the introduction of witnesses to show that the constitutional rights of citizens have been invaded.

Hubert Laux, a miner, who said he had worked in mines in Houghton, Ontonagon and Keweenaw counties, complained against the contract system, under which, he said, it was impossible for a miner to make a fair average wage. If he did well on one contract, the witness said, then miner would be cut on his next one. He said contract, the witness said, the miner to make more than $72 to $75 a month. In one month he said he made $168 and it was arbitrarily cut to $120. He complained of the one-man drill as tending to break down a man so that he could not continue to work for more than five or six years. Under the old conditions, he said, the average working life of a miner was about 25 or 30 years.

Can't Improve Conditions.

Taylor said that the men could not improve their conditions because they were paid of losing their jobs if they were promoted higher than to the maximum minimum wage.

In addition to its promise to relinquish its Western Union holdings, the telephone company's agreement with the department of justice also provided that "neither the parent company nor any other company in the Bell system will hereafter acquire dominion or control over a competing telephone company."

The agreement also stipulated that arrangements would be made promptly by which all other telephone companies could procure for their subscribers toll service over the lines of the Bell companies.

HOUSE AND SENATE DISAGREE ON BILLS

Lack of Harmony Yet May Disrupt Program on Trust Legislation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Determination of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee today to disregard the interstate trade commission bill pending in both branches of congress, and to frame a new measure, may result in further complications in the administration antitrust legislative program.

Thus far the senate and house interstate commerce committees have not been cooperating in consideration of the trade commission proposal, the senate committee having under consideration for amendment the original trade commission bill drafted by the house judiciary committee. Senator Newlands and his colleagues have conferred with the president on that bill and are engaged in perfecting it.

Jurisdiction in the house as to the trade commission having been transferred from the judiciary to the interstate commerce committee, Representative Adamson, chairman, has appointed a subcommittee to draft another bill on the same subject.

"This Train Is Fun for Your Benefit—Ask Questions" reads a sign displayed in a prominent place and this seems to be expressive of the attitude of all in connection with the train. Unlike street car conductors and policemen the lecturers seem to invite questions and always answer them most graciously.

Interest is divided among the three exhibition cars. Some prefer the live stock cars where fat porkers sleep amid piggin snorts and doleful gentle Jersey cows when their ends are contentedly as a young girl her Spearman.

Controversy Over Water Company Is the Principal Question

BITTER CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Several Bond Issues Will Be Voted Upon by the Taxpayers

DENVER, Feb. 16.—With more than 12 hours devoted to almost continuous speaking throughout the business and residential sections of Denver, one of the bitterest election campaigns in the history of the state came to an end tonight. Eight charter amendments are to be voted upon, but the interest of the campaign centered in the controversy between what was known as the "Retailers' contract" plan, which provides for the municipal purchase of the Denver Union Water company, now operating without a franchise, and the "Consumers' League," which favors the construction of a new water plant to facilitate final action.

An amendment authorizing the issuance of $30,000,000 bonds for the construction of a railroad tunnel west through James Peak, connecting Denver directly with Salt Lake City and the Pacific coast, is another of the more important questions to be decided at tomorrow's election. For it is an amendment only those taxpayers who paid assessments for the preceding year can vote, while taxpaying electors, those paying, liable for taxes, can vote on the former proposition.

Other Amendments.

The other amendments are:

Extension of authority of the public utilities commission, relating to providing for city and its inhabitants with water, twice-a-month pay day for city employee instead of once a month as at present; providing for a minimum wage of $1.25 a day; and a bill to regulate the manufacture of artificial illuminants in matter of special improvement taxes; providing for the payment of interest semiannually on all city bonds, providing park district bonds may run 15 years or less, providing all city bonds may run for the full length of time authorized by any future amendment to the constitution of the state.

On all propositions except those affecting bonds, regular qualified electors may vote.

NAVY AVIATOR IS KILLED IN FLORIDA

Lieutenant Murray Meets
Death in Florida

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 16.—Lieut. J. McC. Murray of the United States naval aviation corps, stationed here, was killed at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when his machine plunged 500 feet into Pensacola bay. The machine was demolished and Lieutenant Murray's body was found about 100 yards from the spot where he fell.

Lieutenant Murray had been flying out over the gulf and was returning to the station, when the accident occurred. An investigation has not revealed the cause of the accident.

The death of Lieutenant Murray is the first fatality that has occurred at the Pensacola station. Prior to coming here, about four weeks ago, he was stationed at Annapolis. He was 32 years old.

In Air Only an Hour.

Three or four aviators had been in the air during the afternoon, and Lieutenant Murray was among them. He had been in the air possibly an hour, and about 4 o'clock was coming toward the city from the gulf at an altitude of about 800 feet, when spectators saw the machine dip suddenly toward the water. The aeroplane turned its nose still further downward and, gaining velocity, struck the water with tremendous force.

Two aviators from the station quickly flew to the scene of the wreck. The body of the lieutenant was found floating some distance away from the machine.

Had Remarkable Career.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Lieut. J. McC. Murray, who was killed today at Pensacola, had a remarkable career in the United States army. At the age of 16 years he enlisted as a third-class apprentice and, because of his ability, worked his way up until he was commissioned a lieutenant in the navy a few months ago. He was 32 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

Naval Officers Shocked.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—News of the fatal accident to Lieutenant Murray shocked naval officers and officials of the navy department, who regarded the young officer as one of the most skillful aviators of the corps. He was the second navy flier to lose his life, the first having been Ensign W. D. Billingsley, who fell to his death in Chesapeake bay near Annapolis on June 20, last.

"When I hear of such accidents I am almost persuaded to the belief that the tolls will be science and progress exact are too heavy," Secretary Daniels said.

Opposes Literacy Test.

The president does not consider literacy a test of character, and believes some other means should be devised to prevent undesirable aliens from entering the United States. He told callers today that he had given his vote to the senate committee, including the literacy test, would be favorably reported to the senate soon.

Prospects are that the bill will pass the senate as reported from the committee, but the measure never will become law, according to close friends of the president.

President Sends Tribute.

President Wilson, confined by his physician's orders to the White house, sent a beautiful floral tribute. President Menocal of Cuba called an expression of the reverence of his government for the dead at the Maine.

The president expressed deep regret that he could not participate in the services at the grave of the Maine.

Orations were delivered at Fort Myer by Commander-in-Chief Washington Gardner of the Grand Army of the Republic. Representative Lough of Pennsylvania, the Rev. Eugene J. Hannan, representing the Rev. Mr. Laddick, who was chaplain of the Maine, and Dr. John McElroy of the Army and Navy union.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department and the official heads of a Asiatic exclusion which has been much agitated in the house, will not be considered by the committee.

BILL WILL BE REPORTED

It is becoming apparent today when Senator Ellison D. Smith chairman of the senate immigration committee announced the determination of the committee to report the Senate bill as passed the house with some modifications by the last of this month.

He made known the decision of the committee not to eliminate from the measure the literacy test which would keep from entry all aliens over 16 years of age, who cannot read the English

Laux said that the men could not improve their conditions because they were afraid of losing their jobs if they took their grievances higher than to the boss, who, evidently, over paid.

Chairman Taylor told the witness if the miners wanted a minimum wage on contract as well as on a day wage. He replied in the affirmative.

Laux said the miners were unwilling to have the company fix a maximum monthly wage, and Mr. Taylor wanted to know if that was because the more skilled men desired an opportunity to make more money.

"No," replied the witness. "It is because they want the company to carry the inefficient employee instead of making the efficient men carry them."

Chairman Taylor asserted it appeared to him that it was the bosses who were trying to make a record for efficiency. If it was true, as had been testified, that the men had difficulty in taking their complaints higher up.

"We intend to show something about that," said Allen F. Reis of counsel for the companies. "It has been the custom for years to try to get the men to come directly to the manager with their complaints."

It was regarded as practically certain at the capital that the full committee would send the measure to the house with provision for the two-battleship program advocated by Secretary Daniels. A vote will be taken by the committee on February 24.

If the two battleships, with destroyers and auxiliaries, are authorized, the bill will carry from $142,000,000 to $145,000,000, an increase of several million dollars over the total for last year, when only one battleship was authorized.

Eliminate Dry Dock Project.

The subcommittee's draft proposes to eliminate for this year the project for a great battleship drydock on the Atlantic coast, because it will be necessary to spend $1,500,000 to complete the drydock at Honolulu damaged by an upheaval in its bottom.

The tentative bill includes authority to the secretary of the navy to investigate the feasibility of establishing a government armor plant.

The full committee tomorrow will consider the question of reviving the grade of vice admiral. Chairman Padgett has a bill pending on this subject, but the Senate bill to authorize six vice admirals may be substituted to facilitate final action.

DENVER, Feb. 16.—With more than Eight charter amendments are to be voted upon, but the interest of the campaign centered in the controversy between what was known as the "Retailers' contract" plan, which provides for the municipal purchase of the Denver Union Water company, now operating without a franchise, and the "Consumers' league," which favors the construction of a new water plant by the city.

An amendment authorizing the issuance of $30,000,000 bonds for the construction of a railroad tunnel west through James Peak, connecting Denver directly with Salt Lake City and the Pacific coast, is another of the more important questions to be decided at tomorrow's election.

For the amendment only those taxpayers who paid assessments for the preceding year can vote, while taxpaying electricians, those paying or liable for taxes, can vote on the former proposition.

Other Amendments.

The other amendments are:

Extension of authority of the public utilities commission, relating to providing the city and its inhabitants with water a twice-a-month pay day for city employees. Instead of once a month as at present, providing that

$1,400,000 is paid only for amounts of default installments in matter of special improvement taxes; providing for the payment of interest semi-annually on all city bonds, providing park district bonds may run 15 years or less, providing all city bonds may run for the full length of time authorized by any future amendment to the constitution of the state.

On all propositions except those affecting bonds, regular qualified electors may vote.

Lawson Makes Plea.

At the close of the argument, John R. Lawson, Colorado member of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, made a dramatic plea in behalf of "Mother" Jones and the strikers, and assumed responsibility for any disorder that might result from her appearance in public. This brought a noisy demonstration from the crowd in the theater where the hearing was held, and Chairman Foster sharply threatened to exclude the spectators if there was further disorder.

Following the temporary disposal of the "Mother" Jones question by the

WILSON WILL VETO IMMIGRATION BILL

Does Not Consider Literacy as Character Test, He Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Wilson will veto the Burnett immigration bill if it comes to him for his signature with the so-called literacy test contained in it.

This became known from an authoritative source tonight after Chairman Smith of the senate immigration committee had announced that the bill virtually as it passed the house including the literacy test would be favorably reported to the senate committee.

Prospects are that the bill will pass the senate as reported from the committee, but the measure never will become law, according to close friends of the president.

Opposes Literacy Test.

The president does not consider literacy a test of character and believes some other means should be devised to prevent undesirable aliens from entering the United States. He told reporters today that he had given his view to the senate committee and had left it to them to decide whether or not to include the literacy test in the bill.

Immigration legislation, it is proposed, will be introduced in the Senate in the present session of Congress, designed to set forth a new system of regulation of foreign admissions and to provide for the admission of citizens of the United States.

Bill Will Be Reported.

Sen. George S. Boutwell, chairman of the Senate immigration committee, is expected to introduce the bill in the Senate in

CARNEGIE EDUCATIONAL BOARD INVESTIGATES VERMONT SCHOOLS

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The first critical investigation of all the educational facilities of any state in the Union has just been completed by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The state selected was Vermont, and the work was undertaken at the request of a committee of the state legislature, which desired to examine and improve its entire educational system.

A summary of the foundation's report was made public today. One of the recommendations is the transfer to the public schools of the money that the state now gives to colleges. The University of Vermont, Middlebury College and Norwich University, no one of which is owned or controlled by the state, have recently received increasing state aid, a total of $30,000 a year in 1900, $50,000 in 1911, and $100,000 in 1912. The report recommends the withdrawal of this subsidy because it cannot afford a regular university; however, it is unusual to give public money and public private to private corporations; because the colleges have not used their funds wisely, and because they got it's good will but they were given little aid, and it is evident that they will be cared for through private bequests.

Newspaper of Studies.
It is further recommended that the teachers, together with a new state commissioner of education, several deputy commissioners and a number of supervisors, gradually work out a new program of studies for the schools which, without interfering with its academic character, will relate it more closely to the daily life of the pupils. It is recommended that the high schools include vocational courses, that there be special agricultural schools, and that the work of the State Agricultural college be made of greater value to the farmers. Further school consolidation, with transportation wherever necessary, is also recommended both for elementary and high schools so that every community may be within reach of first rate schools instead of scattering its money and care among a large number that are inferior.

Referring further to the existing system in Vermont, the report says it is very good in many respects. The governor recommended such a study as has been made by the foundation to the legislature and the legislature in November, 1912 constituted an educational commission with Judge John H. Watson of the supreme court, as chairman, and Representative Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telegraph & Telephone company, and Frank H. Brooks, president of the Fairbanks Scale company, and representative educators like Nichols Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, as members. In February, 1913 this commission asked the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching to undertake the study. Under the direction of its president, Henry S. Pritchett, a dozen members of the staff of the foundation and specialists from Columbia, Harvard and Wisconsin universities and from the United States Bureau of Standards devoted six months to study in the field and an equal time to the examination and presentation of their records and suggestions.

A WAY OUT
A Student of Colorado Springs Shows the Way
There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache. Kidney and plasters may relieve it; but they seldom reach the cause. Backache is caused to suspect the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disorders of the kidneys. Colorado Springs people lack them up. Read a case of it. J. W. Riley, 604 N. Spruce St., Colorado Springs, Colo., says I was bothered for many years by kidney trouble. I had backaches and sharp pains through my kidneys and hips. Occasionally I had headaches and the kidney secretions were profuse especially at night. I used remedies and physicians' prescriptions, but I never got relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pill, which I got at the D. Y. Bullock Drug Co. Once cured the attack. Now this I have taken Doan's Kidney Pill. I never have had any sign of a kidney complaint. They are all right, by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. GALLINGER WOULD CHANGE THE NEW INCOME TAX LAW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Senator Gallingher, the Republican floor leader, today introduced an amendment to the tariff laws proposing that no per cent of the income tax collected in each state shall be paid over to the state treasurer to be equitably distributed to the various cities and towns. Senator Gallingher said his object was to reduce the local tax rates.

the conditions of work and pay in the mine.

He said that some of the miners were given extra pay as "spotters" to watch the organization of the United Mine Workers. He said that in the company's payroll, in one instance, two men worked on one check number, so that it appeared that one man received their combined earnings.

The witness produced letters purporting to establish the existence of "blacklists" in Colorado mines. The letters instructed superintendents not to employ certain named men who were said to be union organizers. He said the companies had made a practice of refusing to employ union men.

On cross-examination, the witness admitted that he knew of no instance of so-called blacklists being sent from one company to another.

Witness Wants to Swear.

Mike Sikora, a miner of long experience, was accompanied by the sergeant-at-arms to cease the use of profanity in his account of an alleged dismissal for belonging to the union. He recited a long series of grievances, including alleged short weights and "lost" cars. Mr. Costigan tried in vain to repress the enthusiasm of the witness, who shouted his answers and stood up and gesticulated in his excitement.

Sikora told of an alleged assault by a soldier. "He hit me with the butt of a gun and knocked me down," he shouted. "Then he said to me, 'Get up, you.'

"Wait, wait," warned Mr. Costigan soothingly. "Did he kick you?" "Yes, sure, he kicked me." And by

"Here, hold on," admonished Costigan. "How old are you?" he asked after a few more questions.

"Well, gentlemen, how old do you think I look?" queried the irrepressible witness, turning confidentially to the committee. He finally consented to state his age as 57, which he apparently considered sufficient explanation of his admission that "I never monkeyed with a soldier."

Tells of Search for Guns.

The witness told of the various searches of the Ludlow tent colony. He declared that the soldiers not only took guns, knives and razors, but money and watches.

"The soldiers broke down a door," he declared, "but the captain made them fix it up again. O, he was a gentleman, that fellow. While they were searching our tents, we stood and sang the union war song; they can't scare me."

Then Mr. Costigan turned his witness over to Fred Herrington of counsel for the common schools what it now gives the colleges and as much more as it can afford, giving the teachers better training and better salaries; providing them with more aid and guidance through better supervision and a more helpful state administration. It is recommended that the donation training class for teachers that were established in the high schools in 1910 be multiplied so that every new teacher in the state shall be a high school graduate with prof. vional training. These classes graduated more than a hundred such teachers last year, and soon will be able to supply the entire 400 that the state needs annually. The two state normal schools, the abandonment of which is recommended, have provided less than a dozen such teachers each year.

New Program of Studies.

It is further recommended that the teachers, together with a new state commissioner of education, several deputy commissioners and a number of supervisors, gradually work out a new program of studies for the schools which, without interfering with its academic character, will relate it more closely to the daily life of the pupils.

It is recommended that the high schools include vocational courses, that there be special agricultural schools, and that the work of the State Agricultural college be made of greater value to the farmers. Further school consolidation, with transportation wherever necessary, is also recommended both for elementary and high schools so that every community may be within reach of first rate schools instead of scattering its money and care among a large number that are inferior.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—Demands of coal miners for a wage increase and other concessions to them with the counter propositions of the operators, were placed in the hands of a subcommittee today by the general committee of miners and operators of the bituminous mines of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The subcommittee consists of eight miners and eight operators.

Before submitting the wage question to the subcommittee the conference unanimously adopted a resolution providing that should a new interstate agreement be effected prior to April 1, the men should continue work pending negotiations of state and district contracts.

Some of the operators tonight said that the likelihood of an agreement being reached was as far removed as when the conference first met a week ago. Unless the miners recede from their demands the operators declare a strike is inevitable. The offer of the miners to remain at work under the old agreement pending a new agreement they declare is equivalent and therefore not accepted.

justice, to charge us with anarchistic assaults against the integrity of property and the security of society, would be cheap demagoguery in a bar loafer, let alone a former president of the United States.

"But Mr. Taft in these false statements represents in virulent form the disease of his party. It is the eternal fight of privilege against progress. Wyoming knows whereof I speak. The Republicans of your last legislature bought Governor Carey and his progressive measures at every turn of the road. Had it not been for Democratic support, the feet of your governor would have been hobbled, and your state would have made no progress.

Warran Led Fight.

"Led by Senator Warren, the Republican party of Wyoming is hopelessly reactionary. It does not even put up the cheap pretense of being progressive. Just as Senator Warren's vast holdings of grazing land are used to keep back the small settler, and the increase of your population, are so held that you are denied proper roads by which you can get out of your cities, so the conservative Republican party in its national policy would increase the vast holdings of a few, and would stop the roads by which the American multitudes may reach the free fields of common justice and life."

A resolution announcing opposition to amalgamation with any other party was adopted at the conference of leaders from all parts of the state today. The conference was followed tonight by a meeting at which H. N. Gottlieb, state chairman, presided, and speeches were made by Judge C. E. Winter of Casper, Fred Blume of Sheridan and William E. Cadmus, national organizer of Illinois, all voicing the sentiment of the resolution against fusion.

The display of the latter department attracts much attention through several freak exhibits, chief of which are the stuffed skulls of a two-headed calf and the preserved body of a pig with one head and two bodies.

The forage crop exhibit is complete and covers many grain products as well as forage crops. Under the name sorghums are shown broom corn, milo, millet, foxtail and kafir corn. Included under the head of forage sorghums are found excellent samples of red, white and black amber.

In the domestic science department are shown many convenient appliances for the farmer's wife. Methods of cooking fruits and making butters and other dairy products are also shown and explained by the efficient corps of women from the State Agricultural college.

Case Completed.

Senator Gore was on the witness stand the greater part of the day. When he concluded several witnesses were called to corroborate previous testimony for the defense and before court adjourned attorneys for the senator announced their case completed. After several witnesses testify in rebuttal tomorrow, argument will begin with the prospects of the case being given to the jury before Wednesday.

Senator Gore was a willing witness and as he had unperverted. Mrs. Gore sat with the counsel of the senator and frequently whispered suggestions.

Robertson and Fitzpatrick have testified for the plaintiff Jacobs may be called in rebuttal.

Attorneys for Mrs. Bond sought to open the way for the introduction of evidence dealing with the life of Senator Gore prior to the alleged episode in Washington by asking the question: "Do you know a blind girl in Comanche, Tex.?"

Jennings Testifies for Gore.

Senator Gore did not answer, however, under instructions of Judge Clark, who ruled before the trial started that only testimony dealing generally with the reputation of the parties to the suit would be admitted. Exceptions were taken by Mrs. Bond's attorney.

Al Jennings, former outlaw, now a candidate for nomination for governor, also was a witness today and contradicted testimony given by Mitchell Bonner, a banker of this city. It was not true, Jennings testified, that Jacobs had stated in conversation with Bonner and himself that for $25,000 he would "call off" the charges against Gore.

Jennings admitted that Jacobs named his campaign for county attorney.

Mr. Bond was recalled before court adjourned and asserted that after the alleged incident at the hotel Senator Gore called her on the telephone twice, but she refused to talk with him.

The second time "Mrs. Bond testified, "he asked me to come to his office and I hung up the receiver."

REPUBLICAN FILIBUSTER FORCES AN ADJOURNMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—A Republican filibuster prevented consideration of the Indian appropriation bill in the house and forced an adjournment today. Representative Gardner of Massachusetts engineered the move in an effort to advance the legislative standing of a bill to pension Indians and orphans of Spanish war veterans.

Majority Leader Underwood himself took charge of the fight against the filibuster, declaring the appropriation bill must be hastened if congress were to adjourn by June 15, as now proposed.

After much debate, however, the parliamentary wrangle became so involved that Mr. Underwood moved adjournment. Then the Republicans insisted on a roll call vote which carried the motion, 162 to 90.

LAVENDER AND OLD LACE' UNSUITED TO MISS PADDEN

Of High Worth in Emotional Parts,

Actress Incapable of Myrtle Reed Play

By F. R. W.

Once in a great while it so happens that a really capable actress is hopelessly miscast; that she is absolutely unable at any time to display her true abilities. And so it is with Sarah Padden this year. It is too bad, indeed, that she is playing in "Lavender and Old Lace."

"The Third Degree," and later in "Kindling," Miss Padden rivaled the work of both Margaret Blaikring and Helen Ware. As a matter of fact these three actresses were spoken of with the same degree of enthusiasm several years ago when they were starring in the various road companies of the same attractions. They held positions of equal rank and were regarded as among the best in their particular line of work.

As an emotional actress, Miss Padden is far above the average. She is peculiarly fitted for that type of acting. She always attacked her work with such sincerity that she immediately worked up the sympathy of her audience to such a degree that they forgot for the moment they were in a theater and lived with her characters.

Especially was this true in the pathetic story of mother love told in "Kindling."

A year ago a Colorado Springs audience was moved to tears out of sympathy for Miss Padden's Maggie Shultz. Last night the same audience could not but regret at the mistake made in casting Miss Padden for the part of the up-to-date New York girl. She has neither the voice, nor the carriage, nor the ability to depict such a character. And because of this, deeply serious situations were made at times really humorous.

Play itself a Disappointment.

"Lavender and Old Lace" is a disappointment. As a novel written by that excellent storyteller, Myrtle Reed, it is interesting. But as a play it is far from being good. In the dramatization the book was followed closely. Perhaps this is one reason for its weakness. The play is loosely constructed and at no time is the action swift enough to command the undivided attention of an audience as a matter of fact, it drags horribly. The plot, while good for the novel, is poor for the drama. It ends abruptly leaving much unexplained.

The play leaves a bad taste in the mouth. And as a general rule plays that have this characteristic are very short-lived. Few, if any, successive plays have been scored by such dramas.

"Lavender and Old Lace" was presented in an indifferent manner. With Miss Padden at her worst it seemed that the remainder of the cast made no particular effort to do their best and their best would have been insufficient. Comedy parts, for the most part, were overplayed. And the emotional parts were too big by far for those to whom they were given.

The worth of the company was not excelled by that of the production. The settings for from being pretty in the beginning were worn and dingy and generally unattractive.

It is to be hoped that when Sarah Padden comes to Colorado Springs again it will be in a play more suited to her particular abilities as an actress.

Dugan is a son of District Court Judge Daniel A. Dugan.

MONROE'S LIFE BOATS WERE POORLY HANDLED,
AVOW SH.P.'S OFFICERS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16. The conduct of the first and second officers of the steamship Monitor, sunk off the Virginia coast, was under scrutiny of the local board of steamboat inspectors today, rather than the actions of Captain Dennis Morris, of the Nantucket who is now held charged with negligence in connection with the disaster. These officers tell that E. Horstley and Town, of Boston, Horstley managed one of the two boats that got away from the Monitor and started pursued seawards, as the vessel went down, and was picked up by a boat.

Horstley testified that in a fire, all of the boats had been hoisted and one minute and a half.

The numbers of the board said they could not understand why some of the Monitor's lifeboats could not be lowered even in five minutes. Both witnesses agreed that the ship listed unmercifully after the collision, and that in a few minutes she was almost on her beam end, making it impossible to get ashore. The witness could not say why these boats and lifeboats were not lowered and allowed to fall into the water, where straggling passengers and members of the crew could have hung on to them. Both witnesses said that so far as they knew no orders were given to cut away the life-saving equipment.

ENCOURAGING BETTER FARMING

THE Santa Fe "Dairy, Silo and Forage Crop Demonstration Train" which is now on exhibition here is an agency for better farming, which in turn means greater production and increased prosperity. Long ago intelligent railroad managers realized the importance of doing what they could to help the farmers in the territory traversed by their lines. To them it means increased population and heavier shipments, with a consequent increase of earnings.

The agricultural demonstration trains have proved to be perhaps the most effective plan of helping the farmers. The one now here is made up of eight cars with all sorts of farm exhibits including live stock, grains, dairy products, etc., and with equipment for giving illustrated lectures. In such a place as Colorado Springs an exhibition of this sort is valuable chiefly because it arouses the interest of the people. But the real usefulness of the train lies in the opportunity it affords for practical first-hand instruction to the farmers who visit it at the country stations. Experienced agricultural experts from the agricultural colleges travel with the train to advise the farmers, answer questions, explain the exhibits and otherwise, help solve everyday problems.

This method of bringing directly to the farmer the practical benefits of the information gained by the experts is about to be enacted into law. A bill is now pending in Congress making provision for sending the agricultural college professors on frequent trips through the country to meet the men on the soil. Under the present laws the results of the investigation made in the colleges and experiment stations are regularly embodied in voluminous reports which are distributed by the thousands. A few of them actually serve a good purpose by falling into the hands of men who are able to utilize them, but it is a safe guess that nine-tenths of them are wasted. Obviously it is better and more practical for the expert to go among the farmers himself and explain to them in detail just what he has done, rather than rely on a printed pamphlet to make the information available.

THE ALIEN IN THE CITY

IT IS a curious fact that although a very large majority of the Europeans who emigrate to the United States—perhaps four-fifths—are country people whose sole occupation has been farming, very few of them ever engage in that vocation in America. And herein lies one of the most complex of the many problems arising from unrestricted immigration. The Italians, the Austrians and Hungarians, the people from the Balkan countries, and the Poles are farmers at home. But when they come to America they find conditions wholly different.

Perhaps their first impulse is to get out on the land, but they do not know how to go about it. Very few of them have money enough to buy land, and there is nobody in whom they have confidence to give them the necessary advice and practical help. On the contrary they find in New York and other large cities plenty of foreign bankers, labor agents, saloon keepers and others who speak their own language, ready to steer them into industrial channels. Thus the labor markets of the large cities are over-crowded, and in each one the foreign colony becomes an economic problem.

Meanwhile there is a steady demand for farm labor at good wages and under conditions decidedly more favorable to the making of American citizenship than obtain in the steel mills and other big industrial plants. In California and some other places where Europeans, especially Italians, have turned their attention to agriculture they have shown remarkable adaptability, usually outclassing their American neighbors.

A writer in one of the recent magazines declares that last year the number of alien men entering this country who had been either farmers or farm laborers was 387,405, and that 78 per cent of these are still herded together in the cities. Perhaps most of them would have gone directly to the farms if they had known how to go about it.

Here is a matter in which our immigration authorities might profitably study the example of Canada. Our northern neighbor has handled its immigration problem much more intelligently than we have done, although it is a very different problem. Canada is anxious for immigrants to populate its vacant lands, while with us the question is whether to limit the number who come without solicitation. But the Canadian government has sent agents abroad to make investigations at first hand, to solicit the most desirable class, and to see that on arrival they are taken directly to the rural districts and located on the land. Uncle Sam is no longer able to give all of them free farms, but he could at least do better for them by sending them out into the country to obtain employment as laborers.

ANOTHER POSTAL INNOVATION

THE usefulness of the postal service to the public has been increased more rapidly since the beginning of last year than in all the previous decade. Seemingly it is now the policy of the department and of Congress to heighten the efficiency of the service in every way possible by adopting ideas which have been found good in other countries but have hitherto been rejected here through fear of injuring some private interest.

Thus the public was repeatedly denied the parcel post because it would conflict with the interests of the express companies. Postal savings banks, which have been established in nearly every civilized country in the world for many years, were likewise refused through fear that they would injure the business of the savings banks. But two years of operation has shown the fallacy of this belief, and now their functions are to be further extended.

Now another innovation has been adopted by Congress which, though of minor importance, will nevertheless add considerably to the usefulness of the money order service. At present a money order is payable only at the office on which it is drawn, but under the new law they will be payable at any postoffice. The order will be as safe as at present, but will be more easily cashed. Under this system people traveling can carry their money in the form of postal orders which can be cashed anywhere.

Such innovations as this, together with the lower rates and increased weight limits on parcel post matter and the increase of the amount of deposits permitted in postal savings banks, are rapidly making the department vastly more useful to the public than it has ever been before.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

THE SINGLE TAX

To the Editor of The Gazette.
It is doubtless impolite for an outsider to repeatedly intrude into your local discussion of single tax. However, outsiders are interested. First, because some of us own little summer homes in your community that we object to be deprived of by an openly confessed scheme of confiscation. Second, if it takes but the turn of an election, participated in by the irresponsible non-taxpaying vote in union with the powerful interests promised the privilege of society "without money and without price," then this propaganda is a very potent menace to the security of property everywhere.

The question is a moral one and should be discussed on a higher plane than its sordid appeal to the selfishness of capital. By making Pueblo a tax-dodgers' paradise that town may attract money. Canada profited similarly during the days when it offered asylum to defaulters. Mr. Haynes says:

"We are building a city on a sure and just foundation. Let us see. A widow invested $10,000, her husband's inheritance, in Pueblo property, carrying cheap but rentable buildings. Doubling her land value tax absorbs her income. She can't sell, no one desires property selected for confiscation. Not having the physical strength required at the wash-tub, her choice is suicide or the poor house. An old Pueblo mother writes her son, saying: 'Mother, the Socialists are running this town now, taxes will double, and I see no way but to let the old home go.' An aged seamstress has her 'stitch, stitch, stitch' savings invested in a mortgage on 16 lots. Owner refuses his hitherto prompt interest payment because he must await developments. An obvious flaw in single tax philosophy is that it does not provide for deflating its victims."

When the ultimate goal of the single tax is realized and the banker drives his untaxed limousine over light-embellished boulevards that don't cost him a cent, when the possessors of the watered fictions of finance ride the sunlit crests of society on a free pass, when the bond holder's boy is educated at the expense of the market gardener, when the tillers of the soil have been reduced to tenants, paying 4 per cent rent on the value of their confiscated homes, creating in life that sad character of fiction, "the man with the hoe carrying the burden of the world upon his back," then will industrial labor learn too late that the middle classes, their real friends, are no more.

"AND GALLIO CARED FOR NONE OF THOSE THINGS"

From Collier's
Ex-Governor Hadley makes out with skill and sincerity the best case that can be made out for the Republican national committee. And yet we feel sure that the American people will not regard the care as good enough Senator Borah, Senator Cummins and ex-Governor Hadley. In their indifference to the Progressive movement remind us of Gallo. Gallo was a great Roman who wrote treatises on natural history, which, doubtless, he thought would make him immortal. Well, he is immortal.

but for the very last reason, as Samuel Butler pointed out, which would have blotted his vanity. His treatises on natural history are gone and forgotten; and Gallo's name survives in history only because he cared nothing about a very great movement which crossed the world when he was living.

He was the Roman governor of Corinth when Paul came. Paul had been in Corinth for a year and a half preaching a new spirit of brotherhood upon earth, and the Jews were very angry at him for stirring up so much commotion, exactly as the standpatters of today are angry at the leaders and preachers of the new spirit. The Jews brought Paul before Gallo and made complaint against him. But Gallo made light of it, saying "If it were a matter of wrong or wicked lawlessness, he would consider it, but since it was a question of words and names . . . I will be no judge of such matters."

That is the way of Hadley and Cummins and Borah. They care nothing about these things, and it is because they were indifferent to a movement which caught up many of the finer spirits of their time that their names will be remembered in American history.

WHY THE SOCIALIST PARTY IS GROWING.

From the Railway Review.

The accident resulted in three fatalities and in injuries to 27 others of the passengers and crew. Most of the casualties occurred to the passengers in the "Jim Crow" car, which was of wooden construction. The private car of Mr. J. B. Munson, vice-president and general manager of the road, was also derailed but its occupants escaped with relatively inconsequential injuries.

PONDEROUS PERSONAGES

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

BY GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Siwa?"

William Jennings Bryan, owner of an undivided half of the Democratic party of this nation, was born in Illinois in 1856, and began the discussion of politics a few months later. At the age of 18, he was winning oratorical contests for Illinois college. At the age of 27, he was addressing a few seething remarks to the Republican party in Nebraska, from which it has never entirely recovered. At the age of 31, he began trying out new and deadlier forms of oratory upon congress; and at the age of 36, he rose in the Democratic national convention and swept the party into his pocket with a few deft words.

Mr. Bryan ran for president that year, a habit of which he has only recently and with the greatest difficulty broken. He is still, most the first presidential candidate to run for the office instead of sitting on his front porch and receiving the homage of his party. When Mr. Bryan runs for president he does not do so in an easy chair. He climbs onto the back platform of a train and for months afterwards sits along his line of march pick large reverberating words out of the surrounding scenery. Mr. Bryan holds the long distance record for oratory, having often spoken for 1,000 miles at a stretch, with only short pauses between stations.

Mr. Bryan is now 54 years old. He is a short, heavy-set man with a wide gauge face and a forehead which extends well down the other side of his dome of reason. He wears his remaining hair long and dark and is not addicted to whiskers. He is a plainly dressed man with plain, unvarnished ways and half the people of the west have talked with him at one time or another on the local trains on which he has spent so much of his life.

Mr. Bryan has been a lawyer, soldier, author and traveler, as well as a candidate. At present, he is an editor, farmer, Chautauqua lecturer and cabinet officer. He is also one of the few orators remaining in captivity and in all history few men have known more of the art of producing a shimmering sentence of silver eloquence and calling it around the unwary listener until he is a shouting captive. As secretary of state he is one of the greatest lecturers extant, and among lecturers he is our greatest secretary of state.

A Queer Idea of God

BY RUTH CAMERON

The little boy was very sleepy and wanted to say his prayers in bed instead of on his knees as he had been most properly taught to do. His mother pleaded and commanded to no avail. Finally she said, "But if you get out of bed and say your prayers on your knees, Robert, God will be angry with you, and maybe He'll make it rain tomorrow and you won't be able to go over to grandmother's."

The little boy was evidently much impressed by that. He wanted very much to go to grandmother's, and he didn't like to run the risk of bad weather, and so with a groan on his face he tumbled out of bed and hastily assuming the proper attitude launched himself into prayer.

His mother was evidently satisfied but had reason to be. "Wouldn't it have been almost better for the little boy to have his prayers in bed than to have been coaxed into saying them on his knees, by fear of God who would be angry with him if he didn't?"

It seems to me that some of the ideas and superstitions which we hold about God are almost insulting to him.

I have heard it said that God made man in his own image, and man then created God in his. It is certainly true that as water cannot rise above its own level, so our conception of God cannot rise above the level of our finite imagination. But surely it ought not to fall below that level. Surely we ought to realize that God is more compassionate, more tender, more just and more wonderfully wise than the best men we ever knew or could imagine. And yet some people seem to believe in a God who is as kind or just as a good man.

A Scotchman once repeated to me an interesting little anecdote which his mother told him about Ian MacLaren.

Ian MacLaren (Sir Watson) was a Presbyterian minister, but he was very liberal. One day he was arguing with a good old bell-tire and brimstone minister about infant damnation. Sir Watson pointed out to him that no decent man would be a party to such unfair condemnation, and asked him if he didn't think God was at least as good as men if not a trifle better.

"I know, I know," said the old Presbyterian, his voice vibrant with emotion. "But I'm tellin' ye, sir, the Almighty in his official and judicial capacity, has to do many things that in his private and parsonal character he must be mighty ashamed o'."

Of course, we all laugh at the old minister's explanation, and yet don't many of us entertain superstitions about God which make him out as an "official and judicial" abstraction, doing many things which any normal human being would-be ashamed of.

ODDS AND ENDS

BY RUTH CAMERON

With 350,000 men and women out of employment in New York alone, no wonder congress is beginning to realize that there is an unemployment problem. If congress would place that national appropriation for good roads in the hands of army engineers, instead of turning it over to hungry state politicians, all the unemployed could be put to work, with results beneficial to the entire country.

But, of course, if that were done, the bill would contain no pork, and it's pork the congressmen are after—let the unemployed find the nearest soup house.

Casual employment is rightly said to be one of the great causes of unemployment. But casual employment is due largely to competitive industries. There can be continuous industry only as industry is organized on a national basis. And that, unfortunately, does not agree with the New Freedom.

At least one charge that imported gunmen commit murder has been substantiated. At Houghton four copper mine detectives have been convicted of manslaughter.

The "male political trust" is in for a lacing. Southern Democrats, Tammany men and eastern standpatters, beware.

The Japs are still crude in their politics. Instead of employing the delicate method of "stuffing" the ballot box to suit their purposes, they crudely destroy the box itself, with its contents.

But, inasmuch as a Japanese naval officer has just been accused of graft, it must be admitted the little brown brothers are rapidly learning the niceties of civilization.

One of the congressional investigating committees narrowly escaped arrest at Trinidad Sunday night. These congressmen can't expect to run about as freely as if they were still in the United States.

As for E. P. Costigan, since he dares venture to Trinidad, he is likely to find himself held incommunicado, along with "Mother" Jones.

It's evidently the purpose of the Democratic congress to prolong the radium hearings until all the lands are gone. By the way, what support did Secretary Lane receive from the president in his efforts to preserve these lands for the people?

President Wilson of the C. P. and I. says he feels no responsibility whatever for conditions in the southern coal fields. Which shows, as had been suspected, that President Wilson's conscience is exceedingly rudimentary.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLAD-
DER BOTHERS YOU

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys; they become overworked; feel sluggish, stop up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

"The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right or if bladder bothers you get about four ounces of Mad Salts from any good pharmacist—a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used of generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids of the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders."

"Mad Salts cannot injure anyone, makes a delightful effervescent lithiated drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease." Adv.

Ready, Clarice! The Lily's Painted Again

Fine Day Inspires Scribe to Magnum Opus

By EARL POTTER

All ready, Clarice, to go to the park upon the avenues, really we are going to have the fun isn't it delightful to us? The park bench seats overflowed in the white of snow storms that race in the cold cold east. Scores of people did that very think yesterday in Colorado Springs.

With the calendar reading February 16, North Park was full during the evening hours with people who basked in a temperature of about that of midsummer. Workers in all parts of the city yesterday gave a show of the tasks and looked with vestal eyes toward the out of doors. The weather man dropped in with a sample of spring and went away. But night swarmed with orders for men of the same.

It was just such a day as one loves to sit in some sunny spot where warm rays will fill him with the content of the absence of buzzing insects and the songs of birds, every evidence of spring and early summer was at hand. But, even at that the twitter of English sparrows was there and did not make a bad substitute for bird music.

Shop doors and hot windows were wide open. Matchmen contemplated their spring openings, railroad clerks brushed up the summer schedules and rates, and carriage drivers relegated new tales for tourists.

Out in the residence district houses were impaled on their husbands as to when they would have time to pull the backs out of the chairs for the spring house cleaning, and the husbands replied that they would be ready just as soon as they had squared up the backyard for the garden. Anglers looked to their tackle, young folks to their camping outfitts and old people to their early season tonic bottles. The annual visitor Spring Fever looked in on the town for a bit and almost decided to stay a while, depending on the coming weather.

It was in North park that all the signs were most noticeable. On the field of the old bandstand children romped and frolicked. The floor is all that is left, the rest having been cleared away after it was wrecked by the big snow in December.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

LITTLE LOST SISTER.

When the series of episodes and adventures of Virginia Brooks were printed in a Chicago newspaper nobody ever thought a play would be written from those unique and hazardous experiences. And perhaps a play never would have been written except for the fact that another adventure was added to the already long list of the remarkable reformer.

While seeking evidence in a notorious dive keeper in the Chicago neighborhood one night, Miss Brooks noticed a strange appearing man who apparently seemed intensely interested in her. That this man knew her was certain. The girl was dismused. This man kept a constant watch over her. His stare was so annoying as to make her afraid she had to forget him.

JOSEF HOFMANN

There are some words in unusual enough. His penetrating gaze caused her to ask:

"What are you doing here, if you please?"

"Just oh, just—" Mr. Rose, apparently, didn't know just why he was there. Anyway, he handed the girl a card, and asked her to see him some time when she wasn't busy.

On the card, in the script, was the key to the strange man's identity. He was none other than E. H. Rose, the dramatist and producer. He was there to gather material for a white stage play, and so it came to pass that Mr. Rose dramatized the writings of Miss Virginia Brooks, entitled "The Lost Sister," which will be at the Opera house next Friday and Saturday.

VAUDEVILLE — OPERA HOUSE

Following is what the San Francisco chronicle of January 14 says about the heralded attraction opening at the Opera house today:

"A pleasing and conspicuous feature of the act is that the trainers are not compelled, to lead these mastodon monsters of the jungle around the stage with long musk hooks to make them perform. This has been the objectionable part or most acts of this form. One beast is an expert bowler. He often fights a duel with his trainer, uses the telephone, devours a sumptuous repast and starts to wreck the theater when asked for the price of his meal. The performance of 'Baby Mine,' a 4-year-old (who travels in company with her mother) is most amusing. The tiny beast was trained by a little girl, who coaxes it through the various difficult tricks. When the two knelt down to say a prayer, after which 'Baby Mine' climbs into bed, the audience never fails to applaud wildly."

Manager Baker promises the best bill this week that he has had since opening vaudeville at his theater. The bill includes LeNoir's Mankins, May Kester and her Filipino piano player, Howard and Esther the "Animated Weekday" and a musical comedy.

First Baseball Game of Season Was Played in Springs Yesterday

The first baseball game of the year in Colorado Springs has been played here, while others were quietly planning to arrange a game for the next few days provided the exceptionally warm weather continued, two teams sneaked out yesterday afternoon and ruffed through nine long innings. The "Baby" Alhambra Giants beat the Steele school second team 8 to 4. The batteries were "Baby" Giants, Bill Long and Cooper; Steele, Honnings Newhall and C. Price.

Levinsky, himself, is one of the most remarkable fighters the country has known. He never trains, he just fights, sometimes twice a week, often

O'Day Takes Cubs to Florida to Develop Half of New Infield

CHICAGO Feb. 16.—Manager Hank O'Day, with 14 ball players left tonight for Tampa, where he will begin this week the task of developing one-half of a new infield for the Cubs.

The desertion of Shortstop Bridwell, who jumped to the Federals and the loss of Johnny Evers, second baseman, left a hole about the keystone sack, the filling of which will be one of O'Day's chief cares. With Saler and Zimmerman gone, John and Bill Sweeney not expected to report, the vacancies must be filled by two of the five other infielders in whom O'Day expresses much confidence.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Gustave Prigtenyak, claimant of the European championship, and Paul Samson, heavyweight wrestlers, struggled through a long match tonight only to find, at the conclusion of the bout that a deputy sheriff had attached the box office receipts of $500. They had their night's work for nothing.

What do you get for the extra weight of a heavy water cooled car?

You get big tire and gasoline bills, heavy up-keep charges and a cooling system that freezes and boils and must be constantly watched.

Light Weight vs Heavy Weight

It gives long life to the car.

The cooling system is unaffected by weather—no water to freeze or boil—no extra parts to get out of order.

The riding and driving comfort is wonderful and 350-mile day tours are actually a pleasure even to the last mile—no fatigue at the end of the day's journey.

The Franklin Six-Thirty weighs but 2725 pounds fully equipped and has a direct cooled motor. Price $2300.

TRAILS LEADING TO SOUTHLAND TRAINING CAMPS; BASEBALLITIS WILL STRIKE SOON

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—All trails of leading to the southland training camps close. It seems it will not be long before the rush to the heat against the whistling winds will subside, still respond through the last half of April before another again becomes official with its summer's allurement baseballitis. Of course snowflakes still drift higher and thicker in certain parts of this country. And springtime itself is slow upon us, that we're worried in rushing right off to the bright sunlight with our overcoats. Just so to Bill Shakespeare, Master of King Henry the Eighth, goes that said it the backbone of winter that has been busted. And when a clock bone usually doesn't ring very long.

Already the vanguard of the big league pitchers are encamped in Hot Springs and other purifying sections of the South. The other bunch will follow in a few days and make over weeks or so practically all the regular and recruit major leaguers will be 100 miles south of the Mason and Dixie, a fine striking because of the activity that comes during the first few days in training camps from strained tendons, blistered hands, aching muscles and the cockiness that our minds and most embrace in the small town's southern hotels.

Two solid months still remain snatched from the calendar before the regular season opens, two months before Play Ball echoes and resounds through the now silent baseball stadiums. But in the interim one can read on training camp news which in a way satiates even the most ravenous appetite of the baseball hungry multitude.

Most of the big league teams go south this year with a greater galaxy of recruits than ever before. Many of the rookies have been picked up in their minor league owners by second Ty Cobb, second Christy Mathewson, second Honus Wagner etc. There's nothing new in such a method of advertising. It's an old story. But somehow the big league magnates this year are really expecting something from their recruit crop—really expecting to harvest a few stars, a few real ball players, that can take their places among the regulars and stand the gaff.

The St. Louis Browns have on their roster just now the largest collection

Americans and foreigners of title motored to the game and the large number of handsomely gown women

among the spectators added to the gaiety of the scene.

The French were somewhat puzzled at the intricacies of the play, but showed much enthusiasm when the ball was hard hit into the outfield. The American, William D. Hunter, tossed the first ball. In the fourth inning the New York scored four runs and Chicago four, but the National leaguers were unable to keep up the pace.

Interesting features were a series of daring evolutions over the field by the aviator Lacoste and an exhibition of throwing the discus and putting the weight. James Thorpe, the Indian athlete,

The teams will leave tomorrow for Paris where it is expected they will play Washington's birthday.

Word has been received that Charlie Comiskey, president of the Chicago club, has reached Paris. His condition is reported to be much improved.

Fearing Federal League Agents, Callahan Asked to Sign Tris Speaker

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—Information that the Federal league has sent an agent to Paris to meet the world tourists baseball players was followed today by the calling of a commission to James J. Callahan, manager of the Chicago Americans, to sign up Tris Speaker for the Boston Red Sox next season.

MANUEL'S BRIDE IS RESTLESS

Wife of Portugal's Ex-King Finds
Life Dismal at Fulwell Park.

LONDON.—Ex-King Manuel's bride has already grown restless because of the dullness of life at Fulwell Park, where her society is limited wholly to Portuguese royalist refugees. Princess Augustine is also said to resent the absence of friendliness or hospitality at the hands of English royalists who have confined their attention to formal calls.

Fulwell is a dismal place at this time of the year anyway, and Manuel finds his position has changed since his marriage, owing to the disagreeable rumors about his honeymoon. So it is probable he may consent to pass the greater part of his time hereafter at Sigmaringen with his bride's parents. From there he can easily run over to Munich to enjoy his favorite musical entertainments.
